

Autism: Making Connections

Thursday, March 8, 2018

Stocker Elementary School – 6315 67th St (Enter Door 1)

Free meal (pizza) – 5:30 p.m.

Presentation – 6-7 p.m.

Presenter: Julie Quigley, MA in Teaching.

Julie taught special education in the public schools for 15 years & currently works at the Autism: Society SE WI as the Director of Education & Outreach. She is also a mom of three boys on the spectrum & brings a unique parent and teacher perspective to this presentation.

Free child-care provided!

This free presentation is open to the public and designed for families that want to know more about autism, the available programs, supports and services.

Make connections with session topics that include:

- Basic characteristics of Autism Spectrum Disorders
- How to get started on a path to helping your family support your child
- How to work best as a team with your school district

Please call with your RSVP by Thursday, March 1, 2018

To register for the program, contact Rachel at (262) 359-2256. You will need to leave your name as well as the number of adults attending and the number of children and their ages for child care.

Co-sponsored by the Autism Society Southeastern Wisconsin and Kenosha Unified School District's Family Education Program