

What Grade 5 Writing looks like

Start of the School Year

I... FOUND it!!!

"OMG!! I was about to faint. The beautiful freshness of it! I loved it! I knew my Mom would be impressed! This the snail made me go 'hokey' in my mind. I put my mind back on the shell.

I had never found such a beautiful Precious Shell before. I had no time to wait. I threw myself on the dry sand and uncovered my Precious Shell covered with sand. I ran through the hot, sticky sand and went to show my mother, however, I was so frustrated that my mom nor dad, was fascinated or amused! I gave them a ~~look~~ "Why-aren't-You amused" look on my face.

I walked away and showed off my beautiful shell to my brother. "Yes!" I thought. My brother was so amused that he asked me, "How do you find such good shells? Where do you find them?" "Of course it's obvious I found them in the sea!" I replied. "But how?" "I find them by crawling and crawling on the sand of the sea!" I showed him.

Students write pieces that tell a story. Their story has action, dialogue, and feelings.

Mid-School Year

Television Shouldn't Be Over Watched

My strong opinion is that kids shouldn't watch too much television. Once people should watch, I believe this is true because then you will have more time to study for a good education. Also, some shows on television are bad for kids to watch. Another reason this is true is that if you watch too much television you will get bad eyesight.

The first reason I will explain is that you will have more friends and study if you're not always watching television. Then you are more likely to do well on tests and get a good education. Education is important because if you do well in school you will be able to get a good job and then you will be able to buy a house and feed so you don't starve. Education is important and so is not watching too much television.

An additional reason my opinion is true is that some shows on television are bad for kids to watch. Younger children might be scared of some shows. This is bad because these shows that remind them of scary shows might make

End of the School Year

THE TOASTERS

"In the kitchen, my brother yelled 'Get something to eat... I'm hungry as a starved, Nick.' I gave him no advice. 'I know, I haven't eaten since breakfast left. I guess it'll have some toast.' Nick laughed to me, as he pulled the refrigerator open and took out the bread. I was sitting in the kitchen, on instant Messenger, on the computer.

Nick turned a slice of bread into the old toaster. I guess he thought I was watching it, so he ran upstairs. The toaster began to warm up, little by little.

I heard Nick coming down the stairs, bustling. He made his way into the kitchen, and then was taken aback by the sight.

"What? He scowled at my son. 'What?' It was confused. 'What did I do?'

My question was answered as I stopped to look at what Nick was pointing - the toaster. It was up in a great, blazing flame. I felt the heat.

'What should I do, Nick?' He shrugged and ran upstairs, leaving me being my lip.

I fired a cup with hot water, and from a distance, I threw it on

During the last quarter of school, students usually return to writing stories. Their voice comes out in the piece and conveys emotion and tone. Their stories have paragraphs.

Students write opinion pieces in quarter 2. Informational pieces are writing in quarter 3.

Small British soldiers fought the American soldiers in the Battle of Red Bank. A small group of British soldiers were killed at the battle. The British soldiers were a small group of soldiers. The British soldiers were a small group of soldiers. The British soldiers were a small group of soldiers.	Small British soldiers fought the American soldiers in the Battle of Red Bank. A small group of British soldiers were killed at the battle. The British soldiers were a small group of soldiers. The British soldiers were a small group of soldiers. The British soldiers were a small group of soldiers.
---	---